STATE VETERINARIAN

Makes Close Examination of Sick Animal Belonging to C. R. Newcom—Explains the Disease

F. T. Eesenman, State Veterinarian, of Louisville, was in the city Monday. He came down to examine a mare belonging to C. R. Newcom. Mr. Newcom had owned the animal about three years. About the time he came in possession of her, he noticed the mare was running at the nose. He applied all the remedies he knew of, but they did not improve the condition of the animal. Upon examination by the State Veterinarian, it was discovered that the mare was infected with glanders. This was so reported and the Fiscal Court appraised the animal, after which it was killed and buried.

Dr. Eesenman gave the following history of the disease: "Glanders is due to the bacillus of mallei or glanders. Glanders can not appear in animals unless this germ is introduced into the system. Glanders is of an insidious character and after invasion of an animal there may be no appearance of disease for a long time. A horse may be infected for years without suspicion and at the time is capable of infecting other horses, which may show typical symptoms in the course of two or three weeks, and die. Mules are highly susceptible to glanders and often die in the course of ten days or two weeks, in fact the disease in this form is very often mistaken for distemper. It is well for farmers who are able to recognize distemper among their stock to become suspicious of glanders, when they find it is not getting well in the course of ten days or three weeks. Glanders appears very much as distemper, except in addition to the continued discharge from the nose, there are patches, known to the profession as chancres, on the partition of the nose. They can be recognized by elevating the nostrils and exposing the parts to the sunlight. Quite often it is necessary to feel them, this can be done by rubbing the fingers over them very lightly. When these ulcers heal, which is extremely rare, they leave a star shaped scar. At the same time other ulcers will be eating their way deep into the partition of the nose and it is quite common to find an animal chronically infected with the disease to have the partitions of the nose perforated.

"The glands under the jaw, neck, arm and thigh are always thickened from inflammation when the animal is suffering from glanders. A caugh is always present in glanders, especially in chronic type.

"Man is susceptible to glanders and within the last year there has been three cases where the attendants contracted the disease, and two have since died.

"Farcy is nothing less than glanders in the skin form and is just as contagious as that of the nose and lung stage. It is quite common to find an animal infected with both types at the same time.

"The disease is incurable and as soon as it is determined the animal should be destroyed. The Glanders law, recently enacted, provides an indemnity and compels the owner to burn or bury all infected animals."

"Agricola's" Words Have the Bark On.

The following letter appears in the Owensboro Inquirer, who describes its anonymous author as "a leading lawyer and able jurist."

Some of our neighboring counties are infected just now with bands of lawless miscreants, who are being called "night riders." I object to the designation as insufficient and misleading. It does not describe the bands referred to. I know not how it came to be thus misapplied.

It must be admitted it's difficult to find a term that is descriptive. But when an outlaw, an assassin; an anarchist, marauder and would-be-murderer is simply called a "night rider" the English language is a miserable failure. Judging the character of these bands by their deeds the conclusion is unavoidable that they are public enemies; that they are savages; that they are cowardly and brutal; that they ought to be hunted like wild beasts and shot down as such when found.

They pretend friendship for farmers' organizations, but their pretenses are basely false and are intended to mislead. They are friends to no one. They have all the vices of the anarchist with none of his courage of conviction. They are wonderfully daring if he is a poor man or friendless. The intrepid manner in which they shoot down women and children is striking.

Injuring crops, burning barns, setting traps of dynamite in wheat threshers, driving people from their homes and from the state—these things and much more of the same order occur and the criminals are not even arrested.

Grand juries sit and judges expatiate, but nothing comes of it. A reign of terror seems beginning. It looks as if the stories of Orchard in the Haywood case are to be duplicated. The good name of the state is being sullied, yet no special effort is being made to suppress this fearful state of affairs. The longer it continues the worse it becomes. The immune criminal does not reform. Every good citizen should set about stopping this carnival of crime and lose no time in so doing. The miscreants can be all killed or jailed in a month. Let the work begin. Let every one understand that shooting these fellows down is lawful. No grand jury would indict for such a commendable act.

Table Talks.

You will find that a great deal of character is imparted and received at the table. Parents too often forget this and therefore instead of swallowing their food in sullen silence; instead of brooding over your business; instead of severely talking about others, let the conversation be genial, kind, social and cheering. Don't bring disagreeable things to the table in your conversation any more than you would in your dishes. For this reason, too, the more good company you have at your table, the better for your children. Every conversation with company at the table is an education to the family. Hence the intelligence and the refinement and appropriate behavior of a family which is given to hospitality. Never feel that intelligent visitors can be anything but a blessing to you and yours. How few have gotten hold of the fact that company and conversation at the table are no small part of education.—Ex.

Graveyard Cleaning Notice.

Those having friends buried at Old Mt. Pleasant cemetery are requested to meet there the 2nd, Saturday in August, with tools and dinner to spend the day cleaning off the last resting place of the dead loved ones who sleep there.

Yandell-Yates.

On May 24, 1907 Rev. Ben Andress said the ceremony which united Mr. T. C. Yandell and Miss Ada Yates in marriage. They have succeeded in keeping their secret until a few days ago when they gave Mr. Andress permission to tell of their marriage.

They are a popular couple with their friends and we wish them much happiness.

CUPID PLAYS HIS PRANK

Marion's Young Man Takes His Sweet-heart and Elopes to Elizabethtown Where they Marry.

We are again reminded of the fact that "Old Cupid" is not dead, when last Sunday, Guy Givens, one of Marion's most business like young men, and Miss Minnie Hoover, of Sheridan, returned late in the evening from Elizabethtown, Illinois, where they had been and married. They were accompanied by R. E. Wilborn and Miss Mae Perry.

The groom is the junior member of the firm of J. W. Givens & Son, proprietors of the City Meat Market, and has many friends and a good business here, while the bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hoover and is an attractive and accomplished young lady and by her sweet and charming ways has won for herself friends wherever she has gone.

We feel that we express the wish of their many friends, together with the RECORD-PRESS, when we wish them a happy and prosperous voyage through life.

Death at Hampton.

A sad death occurred at Hampton Sunday just afternoon when Mrs. Nora McCord Rector, the daughter of H. C. McCord, former post master, and wife of S. T. Rector, passed away. She was only twenty-six years old and leaves two little children, one seven and one five years old. She is also survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McCord, and one sister, Mrs. E. B. Hardin, of Madisonville, Ky., who was at her bedside when she died.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at the Rector graveyard. She was a member of the Christian church.

Miss Phoebe Rochester Passes Away.

Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock the spirit of Miss Phoebe Rochester took its flight and returned to God who gave it, quietly as if falling asleep and with no appearance of the great pain she had suffered so uncomplainingly for so many weary months; her life ebbed away without a struggle.

"A beautiful life is its own eulogy. It stands out against the background of years serene and complete. There is nothing to wish undone, nothing to add to that perfected span of spotless days.

There are those whose epitaphs we dare not write and for whom our silence is kindness. There are others whom those alone who shared their daily walks can fitly praise. Blameless, upright, charitable and with the purple and fine gold of their natures unsoiled, tender to little children, loyal to family and friends, with love and charity for the afflicted, peace to all mankind; those who have fought the battles of life with clean hands and spotless life and have passed into the presence of their maker as fearlessly and trustingly as a little child."

Of this latter class was Miss Phoebe Rochester who for more than half a century has been a familiar figure in the church and home life of Marion.

Phoebe Mildred Rochester was born Jan. 16, 1845, died July 28, 1907. For many years she was a member of the Methodist church in this city. She is survived by two brothers, Hon. J. G. Rochester, Master Commissioner Crittenden Circuit Court, and W. N. Rochester, and three sisters, Mesdames P. A. Howerton, J. W. Johnson and W. D. Wallingford.

The funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Virgil Elgin, at the Methodist church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The interment was in the new cemetery. The pallbearers were R. H. Woods, Judge James A. Moore, G. M. Crider, Judge W. H. Walker, J. N. Boston, W. G. Carahan. There were many and beautiful floral offerings.

George W. Gahagan Dead.

George Wheatcroft Gahagan died at ten o'clock a. m. July 26, 1907. The interment took place at Bells Mines. The Rev. W. T. Oakley officiated and was assisted by the Masons of which order he was a member.

Mr. Gahagan was born Feb. 21, 1852 and was the son of Martin and Elizabeth Gahagan. Feb. 24, 1877 he was married to Miss Isabella Phillips, for her he made a kind and devoted husband and was a Christian man altho he was not a church member.

Subscriptions Paid.

The secretary of the Cemetery Association reports the following subscriptions received since last report: A. H. Cardin, J. W. Blue, Mrs. H. A. Cameron, Mrs. Johnnie Duvall, Jesse Olive, A. C. Moore, John Weldon, Mrs. Mattie Weldon, Geo. Howerton, Mrs. Mollie Travis, Will Elder, F. J. Wheeler, J. A. Fowler, Lillie Cook, Mrs. H. P. Long, K. E. Cannan, Mrs. A. A. Lamb, J. B. Champion, J. H. Brewster, J. H. Brewster, Dr. R. L. Moore, Mrs. A. Williams, R. W. Wilson.

Secretly Married.

H. A. Ramage, Marion, Ky; Miss Lillie Guess, same; C. M. Guess, same and Miss Linnie Nunn, same, to marriage license.

Judge Wm. A. Whiteside performed a double wedding ceremony Sunday. Two of the parties were brothers and sisters and all were from Marion, Ky., viz: Mr. H. A. Ramage and Miss Lillie Guess; Mr. C. M. Guess and Miss Linnie Nunn.—Golecondia Ill., Herald Enterprise.

The above clipping was taken from a Pope county, Ill., paper. Mr. and Mrs. Ramage returned home and announced their marriage, while Mr. and Mrs. Guess kept a secret their marriage. It was not known that they were married until the Enterprise told the story.

The groom is a blacksmith by trade and has a good position with Eskew Bros., of this place, and is a splendid young man of good habits and reputation. The bride is a charming and pretty young lady and we see no reason why they should not spend a life of happiness together. We join their many friends in extending congratulations.

Sunday School Picnic.

A union Sunday School picnic will be held next Saturday, Aug. 3, on the Carrs Ferry road one and a half miles from Bells Mines, right on the public road. Come, and bring every body with you. Refreshments of every kind on the grounds, basket dinner, long programme, every thing free, every body invited, good order, good music and singing. A good time is expected. All for the cause of Sunday Schools and the cause of Christ.

Yours for souls,
H. S. BENNETT.

BASE BALL DISPUTE

Facts Submitted to and Settled by the Courier Journal's Base Ball Editor.

Owing to the fact that there was a considerable disagreement between the players in the game of base ball played a few days ago between the Wilson Steam Laundry team and the team known as the Moore team, concerning the interpretation of certain rules of play, it was agreed that the question be left to the Base Ball Editor of the Courier Journal for interpretation.

The following letter was written to him:

"Dear sir: Enclosed find self-addressed envelope for reply to a question in base ball which has been left to you.

"Runners are on second and third with one out; the batsman hits the ball and the runner, who was on second, runs to and touches third; the fielders throw the ball home ahead of the runner who was on third and the catcher touches the home plate with his foot after the runner, who was on second, has touched third; the catcher throws the ball to the pitcher and the runner, who was on third when the ball was hit, runs home and touches the plate without being touched by the ball.

"Question 1. Is the runner out at home? 2. Could he have run back to third and forced the runner who ran up from second to have left the base? 3. And if this last proposition is true, could the runner have gone back to second and have been safe if he had not been touched with the ball before he got back? 4. Could he have been forced out, in case he could go back to second, by the ball being held by a fielder on the base as in running to first base?"

The answers to the questions submitted were:

"Question 1, No. 2, Yes. 3, Yes. 4, No."

So, the answers to the questions submitted bears out every contention of the Moore team and the run made in the play should have counted for that team as well as the out should have been counted against them.

This is the proper way to learn the rules and because a play comes up that is different from the way it "used to be played," is no reason it is not right. J. W. Lamb is in possession of the Editor's reply.

TOLU.

Jesse Shear, who left this section last spring for Missouri, is visiting here. He says there is no place like Old Kentucky.

There has been quite a great deal of real estate trading in our town in the last week.

Mesdames J. T. Woolfe and E. B. Moore spent Saturday in Salem.

J. C. Stevenson sold his dwelling, business house and stock of groceries to Harman Flanary and Mr. Flanary in turn sold the business house and side office to Drs. Moore & Lowery. J. C. Stevenson then bought the corner dwelling formerly owned by Lewis Hoover.

Dick Miles, of Hardesty and Prof. J. C. Hardin, of Irma, were in town last week.

Chas. Watson, of Carrsville, and H. G. Fisher, of Lola, spent Friday in Tolu, the latter looking out a business location.

Mrs. Hugh Watson, who has been seriously ill for some time, was removed last week to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Malcom, of Blooming Rose, but the removal doing no good, she was brought back to her home here, where she is still very sick.

Prof. Charles E. Thomas surprised his many friends last week by getting married, while on a visit with his mother to his brother, Rev. Elisha Thomas. They all returned to their home here last Saturday. Charlie has many friends here who wish the happy couple a safe and prosperous journey through life.

BOLD SCHEME

Worked by Man Who Claimed He Represented the American Society of Equity.

Henderson, Ky., July 29.—The Gleaner has the following to say of a bold scheme worked here.

"Apparently one of the boldest schemes by which to make the merchants and business men generally part with their cash is being worked in this city by a man named Hugg, who says he is representing the Harry Mack Reporting Co., with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. Hugg claims that his company has a contract with the American Society of Equity to visit each town in the country and get the names of all the merchants and professional men in each town who are in sympathy with organized labor and the aims of the great farmers' organization and these names are then listed in folder form and these folders are supposed to be used by the labor unions and the Society to keep the public posted as to who are the friends of labor.

Each firm is mulcted to the tune of fifty cents to get its name on the list and if it refuses to pay up it is placed on the "unfair" list, as are also the names of those who refuse to bite. Sixty-four merchants, doctors, liquor dealers and blacksmiths in all parts of the city were duped by Hugg.

It was left for a Gleaner reporter to take the first steps which lead to the discovery of the fraudulent scheme by securing a copy of the folder containing the names of the victims and submitting it to local officers of the American Society of Equity, who at once declared that they had no knowledge whatever of such a contract.

The following query was sent to J. A. Everett, at Indianapolis:

"Has the Henry Mack Reporting Co. contract to canvass for sympathizers with the A. S. of E. and organized labor? T. T. Barrett."

The reply was:

"Don't know parties referred to. Know of no contract. J. A. Everitt.
